Kidoz recently reported its fiscal 2025 financial results, which are also available on the Company's investor website. Fiscal 2025 revenue increased to US$18.4 million from US$14.0 million in fiscal 2024, while net income after tax increased to US$456,817 from US$353,140 in fiscal 2024. The results reflect continued scaling of the Company's platform and ongoing investment in technology and data infrastructure during the year. Fiscal 2025 operating expenses increased at a lower rate of 22% than revenue growth of 32% during the year, reflecting operating leverage as the platform scales. The Company's strategy is centered on building an AI-first operating model, anchored by its proprietary contextual AI intelligence engine, Kite IQ. Investment in data systems and platform capabilities is intended to enhance automation, improve performance, and support efficient scaling across the business. Kidoz combines high-volume programmatic activity with premium solutions driven by bespoke services and AI-enabled capabilities.

Kidoz operates within a digital advertising environment characterized by increasing privacy regulation, reduced availability of identity-based targeting signals, and growing industry focus on contextual and privacy-first advertising approaches. Industry commentary and market participants, including Apple's App Tracking Transparency framework, GDPR-related privacy developments, and industry research articles from organizations including GumGum and ExchangeWire, have highlighted broader shifts toward contextual advertising, direct platform relationships, and brand-safe advertising environments. The Company believes these trends align with its integrated and direct platform strategy.
